

Through this European project we want to learn and share experiences, how to empower disabled children and their families in France, Germany and Norway. The basis for more self-determination and autonomy is to improve the access as well as to assure the participation of people with a disability. Through that it will be possible to strengthen the social integration of handicapped people as well as to give their families better support and knowledge about their children or relatives.

The exchange of good practice as well as the comparison and analysis of the different situations of disabled people and their families in each partner country is a necessary task. Further, it is planned, that the partnership will gather expert opinions for the planned project activities to enrich the theoretical knowledge and to assure a good quality for the project. The evaluation of the learning needs and the exchange about it with relevant families and professionals will help to increase their knowledge as well as to improve learning strategies for disabled people. The elaboration of a Guide Line or Handbook will be the main outcome of the partnership.
